LITIGATING THE CORPORATE CASE	6082X	O	HEYMAN, K.	TEXTBOOK: N/A	Fri., 1-11 ASSIGNMENT: The first assignment will be to read the Verified Complaint in a case captioned KFC National Council & Advertising Cooperative, Inc. v. K F C Corp. ; C.A. No. 5191-VCS, including the exhibits to the extent necessary. To my knowledge, this class is unlike any other being offered at any law school in the country. This class will follow the course of a single corporate case (the KFC case), which was litigated in the Delaware Court of Chancery, from beginning to end. The class will blend both practical insights into the litigation strategy behind a complex corporate/commercial case and more theoretical discussions of the legal issues involved. We will begin with the pleadings and scheduling motions filed in the case (the Complaint, Answer and a Motion to Expedite) and will progress through dispositive motions (a Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings), discovery and discovery motions, motions in limine (or pre-trial motions), the trial and end with the Court’s decision in the case. Our study of the case will allow us to explore how typical litigation progresses and to examine critically the sorts of issues that generally arise. As with most things, you will get out of this class what you put into it. The class will involve a fair amount of required reading, and you will also benefit from outside reading as well. In following the case as it unfolds, you will be expected to read and have a good understanding of the documents that were filed with the Court or served on the parties. In so doing, you should ensure that you fully understand the arguments that were made in the briefing, ideally reading the cited cases as you perceive necessary to your understanding of the issues at hand. We will be

					discussing the briefing in detail and with a critical eye so you should be prepared to discuss and debate the issues presented therein, as well as the procedural tactics used in making the motions themselves. I urge you to think of the subject case as a novel, getting to know the characters and storyline as the plot unfolds, and to approach the course like you would a course about a work of literature. As with any book, I urge you not to read the ending before we get there. There is a written decision resolving this case, but I believe you will enjoy this course much more and get more out of it if you do not read it until required to do so. I obviously cannot stop you from doing so, but I assure you there will be no benefit to you in terms of grades from reading the decision on the merits before we get there in the class. If you do choose to read ahead, I ask you not to "spoil" the result for your classmates.
